2022-2023 Highlights

Solidarity and generosity

Food insecurity in Montreal is rampant, and it's the most vulnerable who are being hit the hardest by inflation. To curb this phenomenon and meet an ever-growing demand, Moisson Montréal was once again able to count on the support of an ecosystem of partners who share our goal of alleviating hunger. Thanks to the food and financial donations of generous donors and the exceptional dedication of our volunteers, Moisson Montréal distributed 18,289,583 kg of food to some 303 community agencies helping people in need in 2022-2023.

For a healthy and varied diet

Providing healthy, varied, and nutritious food is a priority for Moisson Montréal, a commitment that is possible thanks to the resources invested in improving and strengthening our fruits and vegetables supply. With the essential participation of our invaluable donors, Moisson Montréal has made substantial investments to increase our supply capacity (the purchasing of new trucks), and constant efforts are being made with the unflinching support of our partners (meetings with distributors and producers) to obtain more variety and diversification of our product offer.

One dollar donated, fifteen dollars distributed

One dollar donated to Moisson Montréal enables the redistribution of more than $15 worth of food. The strength of Moisson Montréal's business model led Charity Intelligence to include it in its Top 100 Rated Charities 2022 list (the 100 highest-rated charities in Canada, in terms of transparency, accountability, efficiency, and impact). Charity Intelligence provides Canadian donors with information to help them make informed donation decisions that will have the greatest possible impact. For Moisson Montréal, this distinction is strong encouragement to continue our efforts to maximize the impact of every dollar donated!

A word from our leaders

A worrying picture, an engaged team

The picture of hunger in Montreal is disturbing. Food insecurity is on the rise, affecting more and more people despite a significant increase of one million kg of food distributed compared to last year.

The pandemic is behind us, but it has given way to inflation, a phenomenon that is having an impact on supermarket food prices. More and more full-time workers are turning to food banks to support themselves and their children.

Despite this grim reality, Moisson Montréal is not giving up. On the contrary, our entire team, supported by a dedicated Board of Directors and passionate volunteers, is redoubling its efforts and innovation to reverse the trend by redistributing food donations so that more people in our community can have access to food that is not only sufficient, but also healthier.

New Executive Director

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge Chantal Vézina's arrival last September as Executive Director of Moisson Montréal. A seasoned manager in the food sector, her commitment to the fight against food insecurity and her ability to forge ties with our 303 community agencies, as well as with our donors, partners, and employees, are solid keys to success for our organization. Her impact is already being positively felt!

Pierre G. Brodeur

President of the Board of Directors

A daunting challenge, a deep commitment

The challenge of food insecurity in Montreal is immense. How is it possible that so many people have to visit a food pantry to feed themselves and their families when our city has so many resources? Living with the pandemic over the last three years has, of course, exacerbated the problem, but inflation and difficult access to housing have only made the situation worse.

The problem of hunger is complex, but the solutions to curb it do exist, as long as we demonstrate innovation and creativity, while listening to the community to meet the expectations and needs of the vulnerable.

Moisson Montréal's role in this equation is crucial. For 39 years, our organization has strived to ensure an optimal food supply for community agencies serving people in difficulty on the Island of Montreal.

In this context, it is both an inspiring challenge and a tremendous honour to lead an organization like Moisson Montréal. Not only does the cause we defend require urgent intervention, but our mission is strong and supported by an exceptional team of employees and managers.

We are currently reviewing certain strategies and developing partnerships with social and business players in order to open discussions, find opportunities, and diversify our sources of supply.

As the new Executive Director, I'm proud to be joining forces with an entire ecosystem that has but one objective: to put an end to hunger.

Moisson Montréal employees excel through their commitment and dedication to the cause and through their service to community agencies. Their hard work and ingenuity turn every dollar donated into more than $15 worth of food distributed.

"It's a blessing to work at Moisson Montréal. When I arrived in Québec a few years ago, I had to turn to food aid myself. Today, it's my turn to help others. Every day, full of gratitude for the help I have received, I feel more and more committed to helping others. My personal fulfillment comes from being able to contribute to countering the growing food insecurity in Montreal."

Moisson Montréal committees

In order to deal with certain issues, Moisson Montréal has set up specific committees. Members of the Board of Directors volunteer their support to senior management by participating in these committees, which bring together Moisson Montréal directors, managers, and employees, as well as external professionals who bring valuable expertise and a different point of view. By bringing all this talent together around the same table for reflection and planning, Moisson Montréal ensures that it has a comprehensive view of issues of great importance. The organization is fortunate to be able to count on the commitment and expertise of a large number of people, and this way of operating enables it to maintain sound governance.

The committees are formed annually and meet as required by Moisson Montréal and its leadership.

53 volunteers a day are required to meet Moisson Montréal's operational needs.

Thanks to the ongoing commitment of our volunteers and the gradual return of corporate groups, Moisson Montréal succeeded in maintaining continuous and constant service throughout the 2022-2023 year.

Once again, our organization was able to count on the loyalty of some 60 regular volunteers whose work demonstrates extraordinary generosity and dedication. Regular volunteers are those who accumulate approximately 100 hours of volunteer work over a three-month period, or who participate in the organization's activities on more than 10 occasions over a six-month period.

The lifting of the majority of health measures in March 2022 opened the way for the return of corporate and school groups who, as volunteers, ensure stability in the continuity of operations. They were enthusiastic about the opportunity to participate in team-building activities while making a significant difference.

All these volunteers deserve our warmest thanks for the time they have devoted to Moisson Montréal's mission.

Social integration programs

In addition to welcoming these different groups of volunteers, Moisson Montréal is also involved in various social integration programs. For example, thanks to a collaboration with the Centre de réadaptation en déficience intellectuelle et en troubles envahissants du développement de Montréal (CRDITED), an average of seven adults with intellectual disabilities or autism spectrum disorders join Moisson Montréal employees and volunteers every day. The aim is to develop their autonomy, break their isolation, and enable them to acquire various skills.

Moisson Montréal also welcomes participants in Emploi-Québec’s social assistance and support program, PAAS Action. The aim of this program is to help people who are far removed from the job market move towards greater socio-professional autonomy. For various reasons, they are not immediately in a position to enter the job market. The continuation of this program would not be possible without the collaboration and partnership of the Centre de ressources éducatives et pédagogiques (CREP). This adult training center helps to educate, socialize, and qualify participants to enter social integration programs by offering them training activities and accompanying them on the job.

Thank you and congratulations to all the participants in the integration programs who have made a huge difference in the fight against food insecurity and who bring unique richness to Moisson Montréal. They contributed more than 10,000 hours of work in 2022–2023.

“It’s a privilege to be a volunteer with an organization as efficient and important as Moisson Montréal, which ensures a food supply to community agencies in the Greater Montreal area. When I was younger, cash donations were my way of helping out. When I retired, it was only natural for me to give my time. Being a volunteer at Moisson Montréal also gives me the opportunity to regularly be with remarkable people who help me maintain good physical and mental health.”

Raymond Brodeur
Volunteer since 2016

“As a regular donor for several years, I knew Moisson Montréal from the outside. It was through volunteering that I really understood the extent of food waste and the workload involved in recovering and redistributing food to people in need. Being able to participate from the inside is very rewarding and satisfying. Each week for more than five years now, I’ve met dedicated employees and volunteers who share my values. My time as a volunteer is a precious moment in my week that allows me to reconnect with what’s essential.”

Food distribution

Another important year of food distribution

Moisson Montréal had a strong year in 2022-2023 with an increase in the quantity of food distributed of approximately 1.2 million kg, a jump of nearly 7% over 2021-2022. This performance was made possible by the many donors and partners who provide our food supply, enabling us to also increase the variety of food distributed.

However, this increase is not enough to curb hunger and meet the growing demands faced by community agencies. In order to ensure sufficient service to members, the accreditation process for new agencies has been temporarily suspended in 2022-2023. The process will resume in 2023-2024 to serve new agencies.

A strategy that bears fruits (and vegetables!)

In order to offer quality food and promote healthy eating, Moisson Montréal's strategic priority is the recovery and distribution of fruits and vegetables. Thanks to the implementation of machinery for bagging, sanitizing, fracturing, and blanching fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables, the organization is now able to accept large quantities of surplus fruits and vegetables from growers and processors. This was previously impossible. By breaking them down in smaller portions, we are able to offer better service to community agencies, while reducing foodwaste.

18,289,583 kg

of fruits and vegetables

To take this effort even further and increase its processing and redistribution capacity, Moisson Montréal plans to invest in a second bagging line in the near future. With this new equipment, the aim is to have fruits and vegetables account for 40% of the total food distributed in the coming year (in line with the balanced plate recommended by Canada's Food Guide). To support its strategy this year, Moisson Montréal has increased the frequency of pick-ups from all its fruits and vegetables wholesalers.

Working with neighbourhood community agencies to promote healthy eating

Moisson Montréal encourages the consumption of minimally processed foods that are nutritionally sound and the key to a healthy diet. The food we distribute is classified according to the NOVA index, which assigns a group to food products based on their degree of processing. In 2022-2023, 58% of the food distributed by Moisson Montréal was fresh, minimally processed foods or processed culinary ingredients (codes 1 and 2) according to the NOVA classification.

Developing partnerships with our donors

In order to meet the food needs of its community agencies, Moisson Montréal met with several of its donors over the past year. The business development team received visits from regular donors from the Island of Montreal, including Canadawide, Courchesne Larose, Boulangerie St-Méthode, Boulangerie Lanthier, and Keurig. These meetings enabled us to explore new avenues, optimize donations, and consolidate relationships with these invaluable partners. The team also met with new companies to further expand joint ventures, focusing on the products most in demand: non-perishable products, fruits and vegetables, and proteins.

Food Recovery in Supermarkets Program (FRSP)

Started by Moisson Montréal in 2013, the Food Recovery in Supermarkets Program (FRSP) is an initiative that aims to collect products from grocery stores that can no longer be sold but are still fit for consumption. Every week, the procurement team collects food set aside by grocery stores, helping them to reduce their food waste. The FRSP is Moisson Montréal's main source of meat.

Thank you to the retailers who participate in the Food Recovery in Supermarkets Program and to other valued retail partners!

Products in demand, fruitful contacts

Given that the network's community agencies are seeking product diversity, the food recovered from retailers participating in the FRSP is much appreciated. Through this program, Moisson Montréal receives mostly meat products, non-perishable foods, and a variety of other products.

To create and strengthen ties with food retailers, Moisson Montréal has recruited a business development representative dedicated to this sector. This employee works with retailers to provide training in food selection and preservation criteria. This new strategy is having a positive impact in terms of compliance, quality, and the quantity of products distributed to community agencies. More than 130 stores have been visited, with the aim of encouraging them to donate good-quality products on a regular basis. In addition to the development representative, five drivers make the rounds of in-store pick-ups, six days a week.

Furthermore, the total number of kilograms collected from the supermarket chains has increased compared to recent years. More than 45% of the food collected was animal protein, a 10% increase compared to 2021-2022.

Moisson Montréal, the pantry for 303 community agencies

When people in need knock on the door of a community organization for the first time, it's often to obtain food assistance. The majority of community agencies (76%) in the network have a mission other than providing food services thus enabling clients to quickly take advantage of the other services offered. For people in precarious situations, food assistance is the gateway to numerous resources.

Current profile of community agencies

Every year, a survey conducted at the end of the summer assesses the perception of the services offered by Moisson Montréal to community agencies. In August 2022, responding agencies indicated that only 68% of their needs were met by food distributed by Moisson Montréal. Despite a significant increase in the quantities of food distributed (1.2 million kg more than in 2021–2022), this percentage illustrates the crying need of community agencies that have seen the number of their beneficiaries explode, notably due to inflation.

The overall response rate to the 2022 survey was also 68%, demonstrating the vitality of Moisson Montréal's stake in the community. As for the satisfaction rate, it remains stable and high from one year to the next, reaching 87% this year. The areas for improvement identified by the community agencies remain the variety of products offered, as well as accessibility to basic cooking products (flour, rice, eggs, sugar, etc.).

The current socio-economic situation is having a major impact on neighborhood community agencies. Food aid requests have risen dramatically across the Island of Montreal, highlighting the strong resilience of neighborhood agencies, but also, in many cases, their vulnerability and financial instability.

LES GRANDS ÉCHANGES

In October 2022, Moisson Montréal hosted Les Grands Échanges, a major gathering of our community agencies held two or three times a year. This year's event brought together some 50 organization representatives who became acquainted with our new management team and learned about Moisson Montréal's major orientations.

Representatives were invited to take part in a discussion workshop on the Holiday baskets project. Creative ideas from the field to improve working practices emerged, including the plan to confirm the number of baskets to be made in June rather than in November. By communicating more quickly with agencies, they will have more time to approach their own partners and improve their offerings for the Holiday season.

This space for discussion and exchange is essential for Moisson Montréal. It ensures the quality of our community life, allows us to feel the pulse of agencies in the field, promotes the sharing of expertise, and encourages the exchange of innovative ideas!

The kitchen is at the heart of our shelter, brightening the daily lives of the women we welcome. Fortunately, we know that Moisson Montréal teams work tirelessly to meet our needs."

Our areas of development

A new enterprise resource planning system

Moisson Montréal's latest major strategic planning exercise, which took place in late 2019 and early 2020, identified major areas for improvement in the years ahead. Among these, the issue of digitizing our processes emerged as a must. A major digital project was therefore undertaken, starting with a rigorous analysis of the organization's situation and needs, in order to determine the tool that would enable it to achieve its operational objectives, namely:

- the integration of our systems (operations, procurement, finance, etc.)
- the centralization of information
- increased efficiency, agility, flexibility, and consistency

Together with its partner Groupe Conseil ERA, the organization opted for a Microsoft ERP (Enterprise Resource Planning) system affiliated to a single database, Dynamics 365 Business Central, as a centralized solution to meet its needs.

Starting in September 2022, employees were trained to use this new ERP system. The overhaul of the IT system came with significant organizational and managerial implications. The transition is now underway with the introduction of new management processes and practices. These innovations involve both technological and human challenges; the commitment and mobilization of all stakeholders are essential to the success of this major project.

The new ERP was officially rolled out on May 1, 2023, and although a period of adaptation will be necessary, everything indicates that the strategy, the tool chosen, and its deployment will enable Moisson Montréal to be even more efficient in the future.

Consolidating the digital shift for volunteers

With the online registration process officially in place at the beginning of 2022, the team supported and trained volunteers to use this new way of registering. The new platform has also led to improvements in determining available places in the calendar and a reduction in the volume of emails for the volunteer coordination team.

A commitment to certified sustainable development!

In the fall of 2022, a committee of employees, volunteers, and food suppliers was created to steer efforts to maintain the Ecoresponsible certification from the Conseil des industries responsables, which supports managers in implementing sustainable development and reducing their environmental footprint. Moisson Montréal was awarded the PERFORMANCE level of certification, the first milestone in a continuous improvement approach to eco-responsibility that covers four spheres of intervention: social, economic, environmental, and cross-sectoral. The Moisson Montréal team is very proud of this achievement and of seeing its commitment to sustainable development recognized.

Major investments to meet demand

In order to meet its ever-growing needs, Moisson Montréal has made a number of investments over the past year: new equipment to better serve its community agencies, improvement of the parking area dedicated to food distribution, the purchase of new trucks, and the hiring of new staff.

Many thanks to the McKesson Foundation for funding the purchase and maintenance of a new truck.

Involvement in the community

As a leader in the Montreal community, Moisson Montréal has a responsibility to act as a model corporate citizen and to put its experience to good use with community agencies that share its values and commitment to the vulnerable. Over the past year, several members of the management team have been involved in working committees with organizations such as Food Banks Canada (FBC) and Food Banks of Quebec (FBQ). Moisson Montréal has shared its expertise by participating in several committees, and has thus been able to exercise important leadership within these organizations. In addition to her many commitments, new Executive Director Chantal Vézina is a member of the Système alimentaire montréalais (SAM) and sits on the committee dealing with food insecurity.

Strategic planning 2021–2024

The 2021–2024 strategic plan is based on the following five orientations:

1. improve the quantity, quality, and variety of the food supply;
2. maintain financial security;
3. maximize the social impact of every dollar entrusted to us;
4. go digital;
5. improve the Moisson experience for all our stakeholders.

The deployment of the strategic plan is monitored by the Board of Directors. Its implementation is well underway and a number of gains have been noted in each of the orientations.

The Great Food Drive for Children

For the 10th edition of the Great Food Drive for Children (GFDC), Moisson Montréal, Moisson Rive-Sud, Moisson Laval and Moisson Estrie joined forces to help more than 22,000 children aged 0 to 5 who are affected by food insecurity. Thanks to the generosity of many partners, more than 70,000 kg of food was distributed to community agencies serving children. A special thank you to our donors who joined the campaign to raise funds, nearly $70,000 of which went to Moisson Montréal.

June

19th Golf Classic

The 19th Moisson Montréal Golf Classic took place on June 9, 2022. After an absence of two years, many of Moisson Montréal's partners gathered at the Elm Ridge Country Club for a day of celebration and a show of solidarity. Thanks to the great generosity of 185 participants, sponsors, and donors, Moisson Montréal raised $215,669. The Golf Classic, the organization's largest fundraising event, enabled the distribution of $2.3 million worth of food in 2022, after deducting costs.

July/August

Hungry for vacation

During the summer, many children on the Island of Montreal no longer have access to the usual resources for food assistance from schools or other programs. As a result, partner community agencies see a greater demand. Because hunger never takes a vacation, Moisson Montréal holds its annual summer campaign to raise funds to help meet the growing needs of our youth. In 2022, thanks to the generosity of partners TD Bank Group, Prével and Green Shield Canada, as well as the mobilization of the Montreal community, Moisson Montréal exceeded its objective and raised more than $68,000!

December

Moisson de Noël

On December 9, 2022, Moisson Montréal held its traditional Moisson de Noël with its new patron Stefano Faita, entrepreneur and restaurateur. The 2022 Moisson de Noël welcomed numerous political and artistic personalities, as well as several major partners. They all joined the team to prepare the remaining 3,000 Holiday baskets, which were added to the ones previously prepared in November and December, for a grand total of 20,000 baskets. In addition, 2,160 turkeys were distributed to community agencies thanks to the Fondation Marcelle et Jean Coutu.

Third-party campaigns

A warm thank you to the hundreds of supporters who organized fundraisers and other initiatives to raise money for Moisson Montréal.

Spokespersons and patron

Thanks to their involvement for many years, our spokespersons have become part of the Moisson Montréal family. This year saw the arrival of a new patron for the Moisson de Noël. A huge thank you to all of you for spreading the word about Moisson Montréal!

Élise Guilbault
Co-spokesperson

“Once again this year, we have seen that food insecurity is affecting more and more Montrealers. In a difficult economic context, people who once managed well are now in need of food assistance services. It’s disheartening to see that the volume of requests is not diminishing – quite the contrary – and that Moisson Montréal’s mission is as necessary as ever.”

Justin Kingsley
Co-spokesperson

“By fighting simultaneously against food waste and food insecurity, Moisson Montréal fulfills a dual mission in the public interest. I’m proud to see the extent to which the organization invests, innovates, and proposes solutions to employ ever more efficient processes. It’s thanks to this expertise that the team and volunteers can work to meet the needs of community agencies.”

“Food has always been at the heart of my personal and professional life, so partnering with Moisson Montréal was a natural fit! In addition to reducing waste and fighting food insecurity, this unifying organization makes us aware of the importance of giving back and taking care of our communities. These are people with heart who, like me, have the desire to contribute to something bigger than themselves and show us just how much stronger we are when we come together!”

Ambassadors

The Ambassadors’ Club was founded in 2012 with the goal of paying tribute to individuals who, through their involvement with Moisson Montréal, have made remarkable contributions to the fight against hunger. The Club has over sixty members. In 2022, Moisson Montréal recognized eight new members.

The Jeunes Alliés de Moisson Montréal (JAMM) was founded in November 2016. This committee brings together young professionals united around a common mission: to raise awareness in the young professionals community of food insecurity in Montreal. Since its inception, the committee has raised more than $230,000 for Moisson Montréal through fundraising and networking activities. The Jeunes Alliés represents the future in the fight against food insecurity, which is why Moisson Montréal is so grateful for the committee’s dedication to the cause, and thanks all its members for their contribution and involvement.

Every dollar goes a long way

Thanks to an operating model based on food recovery rather than purchasing, and the immense generosity of its food donors and volunteers, Moisson Montréal benefits from an extraordinary leverage effect. Every dollar enables us to distribute more than $15 worth of food. As the financial results on page 23 show, with $7.3 M in expenses, Moisson Montréal distributed $125 M worth of food during the year: a ratio of $1 for $17.12 ($1 for more than $15). On behalf of people experiencing food insecurity, Moisson Montréal is infinitely grateful to the donors and volunteers who make this tour de force possible.

“Getting involved in the community is part of my core personal values and organizational expectations. I enjoy participating and encouraging my teams and colleagues to always go the extra mile. As a company, this community orientation is essential and must remain among our daily priorities. I’m honored to be an ambassador for a company that is so involved and aware of the needs of its community. I’m proud to be able to help and support such important community agencies and campaigns as Moisson Montréal and the food banks. You can continue to count on our ongoing commitment to exceeding Walmart’s contributions.”

Lydia Chénier
Store Manager, Walmart Supercentre (Décarie)

“As a family, our mission is always trying to help people in need. Since we are in the food industry, Moisson Montréal came to our minds. Their organization branches out in so many ways. We had the opportunity to witness their day-to-day operations and it was very impressive. The Roberto Pietrovito Family Foundation Annual Golf Tournament helps raise awareness of the ongoing hunger in our society. We are very proud to be part of this community.”

The Roberto Pietrovito Family

“For as long as I can remember, sharing was always important to my parents. When they retired, they volunteered. The sale of the houses they built or bought made them a significant amount of money which they wanted to share when they passed away. It was clearly indicated that the money was to be donated to charities like Moisson Montréal.”

Serge Delisle
Son of the late Paulette Spenard Delisle and the late Roland Delisle, planned giving donors

“I really became aware of Moisson Montréal’s work at the very beginning of the pandemic. At the time, there was so much misery and despair. Moisson Montréal appeared to be a lifeline for so many people, not to mention their ability to multiply by fifteen all the donations they receive. Moisson Montréal is a major player in the fight against inequality. I consider it a privilege to be associated with them.”
